

Prof. Asit Biswas

Founder of the Third World Centre for Water Management

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Prof. Asit K. Biswas is one of the world's leading authorities on water and environmental management. The out-of-box thinker is an advisor to UN Agencies and governments. For his outstanding contributions to solve the world's water problem he received the prestigious 2006 Stockholm Water Prize. He is the founder of the Third World Centre for Water Management in Mexico and Distinguished Visiting Professor at the Lee Kuan Yew School for Public Policy, Singapore.

"He has added new dimensions to the wise use of the global water resources"

In detail

As an advisor to the Secretary General of the UN Water Conference, Prof. Biswas was the first to propose the idea of an International Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, subsequently approved unanimously by the UN, to ensure the access to clean water for hundreds of millions of people. He chaired the Middle East Water Commission, which directly contributed to the signing of two treaties in this region. He is co-founder of the International Water Resources Association and the World Water Council and helped with the establishment and development of various UN Environment Programmes.

What he offers you

With his encyclopaedic knowledge on water and global development issues, he offers audiences new and innovative ideas on how the world's present and future water and environment-related problems can be solved with existing knowledge, technology and management practices. He offers new insights on water infrastructure development and management through public-private partnerships.

How he presents

An eloquent speaker, Prof. Biswas' presentations are always fascinating and full of feasible ideas and innovative solutions.

Languages

He presents in English.

Want to know more?

Give us a call or send us an e-mail to find out exactly what he could bring to your event.

How to book him?

Simply phone, fax or e-mail us.